MORALS NO BETTER FOR PUBLIC BATHS, COMPTROLLER SAYS

"Throw Him Out!" Cry Advocates of $22,000 Appropriation for Floating Ones.

CHILDREN MAKE PLEA.

"We Pay Your Salaries," Louis
J. Krauss Tells Board of Estimate.

"Throw him out of office!" "Impeach him!" "That man is unfit to represent the people!" were hurled at Comptroller W. A. Prendergast, at the meeting of the Board of Estimate to-day, after he had declared that public baths did not better the moral tone of the people and that police records proved the city was much better morally years ago before there were such public facilities.

Comptroller Prendergast had just announced that he would vote against an appropriation of $22,000 for the continuation of the open air floating baths because he thought the thirteen inland covered baths scattered throughout Manhattan were sufficient.

The meeting was held in the Board of Aldermen chamber. The gallery was jammed with children from the various public schools, carrying pen-nants declaring for open air baths.

Their teachers were with them. On the main floor of the meeting room were hundreds more children, boys and girls. Some had written speeches which they read, appealing for the river swimming places. It was explained that the children were the "Mayors," "Comptrollers," etc., of the schools they represented.

"Do you children attend the public schools?" asked the Comptroller.

"Yes, sir!" came a shrill, class room chorus of several hundred voices.

"Then," retorted the Comptroller,
"you all ought to be in school now.
The teachers who are with you are paid by the city. What are they doing here?"

"The children have a right to come here and learn their civic duties," said Borough President Marks, who asked for the appropriation.

Some one murmured, "Monkey-shine!"

"Yes, that's a very good word," said the Comptroller. "It describes this whole scene."

Hilda Deravinsky, thirteen, a pupil in School No. 177, told how the little children of the tenements teemed into the open baths in summer because it was their only opportunity to linger in God's sunshine. Then a blind boy, Alfred Losensky, twelve, who is associate judge of Public School No. 20, said he couldn't see the sunshine, but he was pleading for those who could.
In the name of humanity, he asked, wouldn't the Board spend just $22,000 for the millions who used the open baths?

"I was a sickly, puny little girl until I began to bathe," said twelve-year-old Carrie Scilla of the Italian School of the Children's Aid Society.
Now look at me, gentlemen."

Carrie weighs about one hundred and twenty pounds and has a life saver's medal.

Louis J. Krauss, head of the Bureau of Moral and Hygienic Education, said: "You seem to think the hundreds of people here are seeking charity. We're not. We're paying your salaries. All we ask is enough money to enable us to bathe like human beings. If you have the right to deny us that I suppose we shall have to beg of you the privilege to breathe the air of heaven."

In explaining his vote, Comptroller Prendergast said the city was retrenching and that it had to stop spending money. Because of the thirteen inland baths he thought the floating baths unnecessary.

"Anyway," went on the Comptroller, "going into a bath doesn't make a man more moral. The standards of morality of this community are no higher to-day, and I doubt if they were as high, as they were years ago when there were no baths."

"Public baths are not necessary to public cleanliness. To be clean one only needs the inclination, soap, water and towels. All this talk and this demonstration has no effect on me.
It doesn't impress me in the least."

"The records of the police and penitentiary prove that improvements such as these don't decrease lawlessness."

The Board took no action. Acting Mayor McInnis said he would vote for the opening of the river baths if they are properly regulated by the Board of Health.

SUBMARINE NEAR NEBRASKAN, SAY SEVERAL FISHERMEN

was actually sighted, but nevertheless they are convinced that she was struck by a torpedo. They do not believe a mine could have done this damage. One reason for their conviction is that they felt a terrific shock an appreciable length of time before the explosion. Moreover, a mine, it is declared, would have shattered the side of the vessel, while in this case all the damage was internal.

The damage to the vessel's upper structure is so severe it is evident the shock the ship suffered must have been terrific. Great derricks were torn up and flung across the deck, smashing the rail on one side. Strong steel girders forming part of a hatch were blown out and some went overboard. In the deck flooring near the hatch two large holes were made, revealing the naked steel girders, two of which were cut through cleanly.

The bunks occupied by the boatswain and two quartermasters, all of whom were injured, are a mass of splinters and the men are wondering how they escaped more serious hurts.
All the furniture and woodwork in the room were broken into fragments.

The boatswain suffered injuries on his head, arms and legs. Both quartermasters were badly injured.

The American Consul and representatives of the American Embassy boarded the ship from a tender yesterday afternoon, meeting the steamer off the bar and coming with her to the dock.

Under direct orders from Washington, the naval attaché of the American Embassy at London, to-day began a rigid inquiry into the reported tor-pedoing of the Nebraska.

Capt. Greene and officers of the Nebraska were quizzed at a secret session while preparations were being made to put the steamer in dry-dock for a careful examination of her hull.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Secre-

Queen of Italy, Who Has Given Three Palaces for Use as Hospitals

ROME, May 28.—Queen Helena to-day put the royal palaces at the Quirinal, Milan and Mantua at the disposal of the Italian Red Cross.

Pope Benedict, it was announced, has offered the use of Villa Castel Gandolfo for use as a hospital. A number of priests are reported to have joined the army.

ary Bryan said to-day that an incomplete report had been received from London of the investigation into the explosion which rammed the Nebraska, but that nothing would be made public until the report of naval experts had been received. Department officials said the full report of the investigation would be cable as soon as possible by Ambassador Page.

Ambassador Page has cabled that the sworn statement of Capt. Greene of the Nebraska had been given to Lieut. Powers, naval attaché of the Embassy at Liverpool, and that it would be forwarded at once.

It was also announced that an examination was being made in Liverpool to-day by American Naval Constructor McBride to determine, if possible, whether the Nebraska was damaged by a mine or a tor.

Pending the receipt of the construc-tor's report, decision as to action of the American Government probably will be deferred.

SAW ELBERT HUBBARD
WITHOUT LIFE BELT
AS LUSITANIA SANK

Survivor Thinks Writer May
Have Been Assured Liner
Would Float.

Samuel Knox, President of the New York Shipbuilding Company and a Lusitania survivor, was a passenger to-day on the Rotterdam of the Holland-America Line. He is the only survivor thus far interviewed who saw Elbert Hubbard before the Lusitania went down.

"I saw Hubbard on deck soon after the crash," said Mr. Knox. "He was stone and appeared to be calm and interested in things that were going on about him. He did not wear a life preserver. Perhaps he had accepted the assurances of some of the officers that the ship would remain afloat until beached."

"The Lusitania," said Mr. Knox, "was struck only once. From the violence of the explosion I felt that the ship was doomed. I hurried from the dining saloon to my stateroom and put on a life preserver. When I reached the deck, only a few minutes after the torpedo struck, the ship had a decided list to starboard."

A lifeboat, still attached to the fallie, was about just below me. I jumped into the boat, which was in charge of one sailor. The other men jumped in. The Lusitania was going down then. We couldn't get the line loose and knowing that the ship would carry the lifeboat to the bottom, we jumped. Just before she sank the Lusitania righted herself slightly. Then she rolled over again and went down. I was caught beneath one of the funnels, but swam up and shot to the surface just outside the swirl which marked where the liner had sunk."

WIFE SUES AL. DAVIS

Asks Divorce from Dancer Who Figured in Eminent Kelly Case.

Mrs. Annie Davis filed suit for divorce to-day in the Supreme Court against Al Davis, who figured as the tango companion of Eugenia Kelly, the young actress, and who is dancing partner of Ruthie. Davis is a professional dancer. The correspondent is related in an unknown woman and the alleged marital wrong doing occurred in the St. Francis and Van Cortlandt Hotels within the past few months.

A week ago Mrs. Davis brought suit for separation from her husband but the case was dismissed. Mrs. Davis declared that her husband had abandoned her and had failed to support her.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED ON BOOKMAKING CHARGE HELD IN $300 BAIL

Westchester Racing Association Officials May Be Put on Trial as Result of This Case.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., May 28.—The four men who were arrested at Belmont Park yesterday charged with violating section 986 of the Penal Law, which makes it a crime to make a book on the races, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Walter R.
Jones in Hempstead this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge.
They were held in $300 bail to appear for trial to-night, but it is understood that the case will not be heard until Thursday of next week.

The men are J. Farina, No. 1411
Amsterdam Avenue; W. Pyott, No.
173 West One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street; C. Jandorf, No. 1267 Seventh Avenue, and Dr. H. Armando, No. 1348 Amsterdam Avenue, Manhattan. They were arrested on complaint of J. S. Thompson of Oyster Bay, a constable, and C. Karboom of Hempstead, who alleged that they had made bets with the defendants, that they put up money and saw the defendants make a record of the wagers.

Subpoenas were issued this morning by Supreme Court Justice Scudder, in which a number of prominent Nasau County people will be summoned to the Mineola Court House where Justice Scudder will sit as a commit-teeing magistrate to hear evidence in the case of the people against the Westchester Racing Association and the officers of the same as well as divers other persons that the association was guilty of bookmaking on May 20th.

"This will bring all the officials of the track to Mineola and if the evidence as laid before the Justice warrants it, the directors of the track will be held under the Directors' Liability Law and be put on trial."

3-Grain Tablet Makes Flesh

"Any one wishing to add to their weight, improve their color, and restore a normal condition of the stomach and nerves, should adopt the wonderfully successful treatment known to physicians and druggists as '3-grain hypo-nutrient tablets,' put up in sealed packages with full directions for home use. Red lips, pink cheeks, and 10 to 20 pounds increase in weight are not uncommon results from several months' use. Ask your physician or a well-stocked drugstore for them."
